Im a lot like our friend Nuke over there... If im in an arguement whether its IRL or on the net.. I will proceed with making the other guy get loud and then make him/her out to an idiot. I know what buttons to press to spring the response that I am looking for. Its the easy way and the smarter way to win any arguement even if you're completely wrong but it works much better if you're right. You make them look stupid by proving why you was right and then you make them look stupid for getting all beefy.

If you decide to go down this road be warned that someone will one day turn around and flat out smack you in the face. But yeah the quiet, calm and smart way is always a must with me.
