It's an immensely fun game so far, and it's not even finished! Tons of people are complaining that it breaks away from the tried and tested C&C formula, and that it makes fun of itself too much, but once I'd played a few good matches I decided I love it! Hopefully they don't lock out the beta until the day before the final game's released, so I can have it on pre-order and then not lose any playing time.
