To my knowledge, I have not falsified or exaggerated ANY of the figures I said before. Your server having a large number of players on it with the pointsfix in place is an anomaly, because from what I've seen in the Jelly community is an exponential decline in players on AOW1, our only pointsfix server, until Jelly stepped in and made changes to the gameplay that make it a completely different server.

You have data that clearly indicate the unpopularity of the pointsfix, yet you don't acknowledge it or attempt to find solutions that everyone will be happy with. I see that as YOUR responsibility, since you are attempting to make this a mandatory patch.
