I think darkies like you aren't human beings, but that doesn't mean my opinion is right... If you can see how stupid and arrogant that sounds, then you might want to step back and look inside yourself for a while.

I'm far from Christian conservative, but my fiancee and I didn't have an abortion. We came up to the point of doing it, waited right before she had to go in for the procedure and walked away. We knew it wasn't right. You might choose to kill that child if you were in my position. I didn't, and I don't feel anyone should have the choice to kill like that. The fact that we could have walked into a clinic and ended my daughter's life in a few moments is very real in my mind. That she walks around and is happy and healthy because we didn't go through with the procedure makes it look like attempted murder.
