I wonder- what defines a "pro" for you? You've given us a word, but you've failed to define it- what characteristics define a "pro?"

I ask because I've yet to see a definition for the term that isn't as shallow as most of the people who apply it to themselves. Usually it is thrown around by people who think score is everything, or that being able to headshot while bouncing around like a bunny rabbit automatically makes them the master of the game. So, when you say "pro," what exactly do you mean?
