at least rate ea will just drive more people into downloading torrents as they will get tired of the treatment they get when they try to stay within the law.

and with more people doing it, the chances of getting caught will decrease thus the risk will decrease thus more people will start illegal downloading.

and with less revenue eventually EA and other game producers will not be able to afford to finance more and more games and as a result gaming will die with no new products on the market.

Its a extreme outcome but a possible one.

And it'd all be caused by... Oh, what's that? Yeah, that's right.

Anti piracy tools.

Thats the ironic thing!
