Aircraftkiller1 would join, but some of your server moderators are pissy little bastards.

I also don't like your rule about "No shooting from base to base with soldiers in the designated areas, regardless" even though Mike Amerson, creator of Islands, intended for soldiers to be able to shoot the Weapons Factory and the Hand of Nod\Tiberium Refinery\Airstrip from their base in the mountain holes...

Most of the people including me think that camping from your server requires no skill at all and it is pretty cheap just sitting there shooting at the buildings and going to refill when out of ammo.

That's just a pathetic way to get points and it also shows no team work or willing to do anything but camp there.

Since islands is a small map i don't see why you should point whore from those holes. Even if the creator of it made it that way it doesn't mean we should like it the way it is, The no camping on base rule is one of the most important rules on most servers.
