
Subject: meh

Posted by Vindicare Assassin on Mon, 04 Aug 2003 12:06:43 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Umbral_DelaFlarelf EA begins to patch Renegade again, they could regain the trust of the people they disappointed after the Westwood shutdown, therefore increasing sales of other games.

hmmm, i would agree.... it might be real, because, as stated in umbral, it is for money..... they could also use this as a.... well as a "starcraft".... what mean is,

"look everyone, renegade is 2 years old, the company that made it has closed down.... but were still patching it, and we intend to keep doing so....."

as to get peoples "trust" back like umbral said, and to also, make people believe they support old games still..... could be a big seller.....
