do u think interacting with our selfs from an other universal patch would intertwine our univerise but also create more universes witch interact making more and more. how about interaction from a far universe so far from ours it resembles our own command and conquer game leading to the thought all thoughts come from every one of our existing universes. every posible tought was created from a image of a perelel universe. and also if we ever did discover a way to travel time in the far future why didnt we send world peace and stuff allready and if we had a apocolapes god forbid wouldnt the other patches of universe would have helped our univesrse and neghboring univesres.
