

---

Subject: Re: Epsilon Worldwide New Forums!
Posted by AsgarothXe on Sat, 10 Jan 2009 16:06:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I do understand web development.

I have already made a website; the only problem I'm having right now is trying to fix 2 pictures on the website, that have to do with the background and the text background.

I had put the transparency from 10%-50% so that it would become transparent as the pictures moves downwards. I'm trying to fix that, before I go out doing PR work.

I know I'm not finished with the website yet; I'm still trying to finish it.

It's kind of like I'm the only commando in this large army of nod fighting them off to the best of my ability. I'm the one making the wikia, I'm the one making the forums, I'm the one making the website; I'm doing it all. I don't have 24 hours to work every day to get everything done. I have to sleep, and I have to work, and go to school (college; last year =D), plus I got my wife adding chores to my list haha...

Anyone can make a community. They do not have to have much knowledge about things at first. They only have to learn it as they go. This project is fun for me; I am not shutting it down at all. You may see this as a mistake; but I plan to finish this arduous task with or without anyone's help.

If there is something that you could help me with I appreciate it, if you have negative thoughts that will assist me in building this thing then share them with me; but if you are just trying to make me stop what I am doing then I don't want to hear about it.

I know that you are just trying to be helpful here; but this is not merely a project that I am trying to do just for fame, glory, etc. It's just something I wanted to take on for fun. Will you help me in finding a few bugs here and there, or will you just sit on the bench and do nothing?

I hope you choose to assist me. =)

---