I think we can all assume that the next release of the Command and Conquer universe will be Generals 2. I base this assumption on many clues:

- 1) EA bought the domain name generals2.com earlier last year
- 2) A beta key for a "future C&C game" shipped with Premier edition copies of Red Alert 3
- 3) On the EA job listings, there were positions for CNC3, RedAlert3, Tiberium and Generals 2. They cancelled Tiberium and the other two have been released. The expansion for RedAlert3 is not coming out in March, so the expected release of a CNC game in March must be Generals2.
- 4) There are others, including interviews, but by now we can all agree it must be coming I guess...

So, do you accept that Generals is a third Universe of the CNC world, and will you be buying it?
