I think it's been about a year since I've played? Maybe a year and a half?

I just got completely fed up with the absolute lack of teamplay between full servers of random people (obviously friends and clans are much more inclined to use teamwork). Everyone wanted to "be a renegade" and go do their own thing. In this game that doesn't work because you actually do have to depend on teammates, otherwise you find your base being crippled which limits what you can do because of their inaction.

It's not like this just happened one day, you know a bad day. No it took several weeks of this before I was fed up enough to just snap one day and stop playing.

But, the game is so addicting that I feel like I might want to start playing again after my hiatus. And now that I have a new DVD drive that isn't broken and can read CDs (my previous one stopped reading CDs about 6 months ago) I can actually install Ren again.
