Well?

The game rankings in the C&C Games are just thrown in for fun.

Most here play for their own fun... not for rank.

Besides, in the way the ranking system works it doesn't show the real potential of a player.

Someone who stays shooting at buildings from a distance isn't a good player, that's just a point whore.

The people that are really experienced are the people who manage to get a beacon in the AGT on field, or who get 20 sniping kills without being seen and killed.

What is your point of standing in this?
