Subject: Re: Suggestion
Posted by saberhawk on Mon, 16 Feb 2009 22:30:27 GMT

mutad3d wrote on Mon, 16 February 2009 16:04Just a suggestion: Release the anti-cheat and the auto patch downloader first.
That way the renegade community can enjoy a cheat free game and u guys will have all the time to work on fixing bugs.

Protip: It's been said before that the anti-cheat/ingame downloader/every other feature are so intrinsically connected with each other that even attempting to separate one or two features from the rest would cause us to spend ~5 times as much time trying to work around bugs/inconsistencies caused by said separation than actually finishing everything up. Also, we don't devote 100% of our developer power at one feature at any one time (nor should we as we each have our own areas of expertise). This means that while some developers are working on fixing bugs, others are working on speeding up the game, and others are working on the anti-cheat/etc. So therefor, it is entirely useless to provide or even speculate on suggestions to improving our internal process, which, get this, is internal meaning that you actually have no idea what's actually happening with it at all.