Oh, and I don't know if this directly says it (I haven't watched it all the way through either). The video shows how the Mayans were able to write down the 9 planets and describe their colour, before we even did. They also predicted a 10th planet (Nibiru), which has a 3600 year orbit is about the size of Jupiter and will cause chaos when it comes back. 2012 marks the end of the Mayan calendar, and when Nibiru is also scheduled to come back.

When it comes back, it is said that 90% of the population on earth will die, and the survivor's physical bodies are suitable candidates for the Gods that will descend from Nibiru. Their "experiences" will be complete, they will become immortal and enter "the 4th dimension". This is a complete state of enlightenment, there is no conflict and everyone lives in Harmony. The selected priests will have access to endless knowledge.

Nibiru is apparently visible in April this year to the naked eye, and will show as a red dot.

Lets hope it is never spotted.

Or of course this is yet another doomsday scare

Although, whether or not I believe in the Gods or other mythical stuff around this; I am keeping an open mind about Nibiru.
