I think it's a necessary step for the human race. I also think that people are just way too paranoid about it. With proper supervision noone will be doing anything they shouldn't be doing. Curing diseases is probably one of the most important reasons I'm a supporter of it. Sooner or later people are going to start with it anyway, whether those people are "good" or "bad" depends on politics, but hey, we weren't talking about that here.
