

---

Subject: Re: Renegade X - April Update: Serious Business!

Posted by R315r4z0r on Fri, 03 Apr 2009 19:04:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Mr. Selfish wrote on Thu, 02 April 2009 15:28

It's called a lens cap. It protects the lens from taking any damage when not in use. It's just a piece of plastic...

Scopes don't need to be all overly-fancy. What point is there for a scope to have scrolling text, a bunch of flashy lights, and a bunch of other useless garbage?

You use a scope to magnify your view, not hack the mainframe at the Pentagon. Get over it.

---