For the record, I've never stated that I cared either way.

This would hardly be a game-changing feature. What's there for "acouple" "ppl" to figure out?

When you let go of the button, the camera recenters where you're looking at. Makes sense to me.

Or, as it is, the reticle just recenters to the camera. Doesn't make much sense, but it works.

That, and hardly anybody wants it to happen.

Well I at least find the free aim system fine.
