I don't know if you've noticed, but "muscle cars" are really a relic of the past.

I was in a head-on high speed car crash a few months ago with a woman driving a 2001 Pontiac Firebird, and I was in a Honda Accord. I was mildly injured and was released in six hours, whereas she needed major surgery and was released in six weeks. Guess who drove the better car? Hurr durr, her car can go 0 to 60 in 5 seconds or whatever. A lot of good it did her, driving down a highway with a speed limit less than that..
