
Subject: Re: The swine flu

Posted by jnz on Tue, 05 May 2009 11:37:27 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Goztow wrote on Tue, 05 May 2009 10:06jnz wrote on Sat, 02 May 2009 11:45Goztow wrote on Sat, 02 May 2009 09:29SARS refers to hospital infections, right?

No,
Severe acute respiratory syndrome
oops, confused with MRSA.

MRSA can be transmitted outside of hospitals too, it is a mild bacteria that affects the skin (afaik). Which is immune to most anti-biotics, including your own immune system. Which is why it is deadly.

EDIT:I think the first occurrence was in a hospital, though. Mainly because of all the anti-biotics they use.
