

---

Subject: Re: Is SkyNet Possible?

Posted by DarkKnight on Mon, 20 Jul 2009 00:18:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

jnz wrote on Mon, 20 July 2009 00:34

Find me one that is faster than anything on the current market with a budget less than £10K.

Again, can't do these silly projects without funding. It would be hard to get any type of funding for this type of project.

yet if you were to ask that same question 20 years ago you couldn't find a desktop computer for under 10k.

Today we can store in a chip in your watch that took a whole room to fill several years ago.

Who knows what the future holds. Computer programming is becoming more and more sophisticated. Computers may never become self aware in the true sense that we are. Whose to say someone can program one to think on its own through programming and come to the conclusion that mankind shouldn't be allowed to exist.