well good choice on the nissan, but cube? that thing only has 122hp, when you seat 4 average north american people in there you will barely be able to get to the posted speed limit.

i grant you that the cubes are cool inside, and come with a built in sub woofer. but on the outside in my opinion they look butt ugly.

nissan rogue on the other hand is nice, gets good gas milage and still has 175hp.

the all wheel drive rogues come with "intuitive all wheel drive" basically you take off in all whell drive, then it switches to front wheel, and back to all wheel when you take corners and go offroading or need the torque.

yes i have been looking into those cars as well also if you need to have another opinion on the altima, ask Blazer or Crimson about theirs. Blazer has had one for 2-3 years i believe.

but he has the 2 door coupe altima, while i got the sedan.
