

---

Subject: What if Renegade (2) was made by different company?

Posted by smwScott on Sat, 16 Aug 2003 21:54:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

If Valve made the game then it would be awesome. The single player would be absolutely fantastic, and the multiplayer would be decent. The mod potential would be through the roof so the multiplayer would eventually be totally kickass.

The HL2 engine would actually work really well for a game like Renegade. It can support huge maps, obviously great graphics, all types of vehicles, and it probably wouldn't be a big stretch to include destructible bases as well (I'm sure it could at least Ren's quality of destruction, but it would probably let you literally destroy the bases).

But Valve has better things to do then continue the series of a game that sold mediocre when they have about 3-4 extremely hyped series. The rights to the series isn't worth buying. The best hope for any kind of improvement to Ren is in mods for other games, which would be awesome.

---