

---

Subject: Re: Seriously?

Posted by EvilWhiteDragon on Tue, 22 Sep 2009 17:56:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Crimson wrote on Tue, 22 September 2009 17:57: EvilWhiteDragon wrote on Tue, 22 September 2009 00:29: They didn't know that beforehand (because it did not exist) so you should've warned them and give them another chance.

I'm sure that if these people really mean harm, they'll be able to do it without Renforums don't you think?

Well, since I can't READ private messages, it kinda shoots that little theory out the window, doesn't it? And no, they can't do it without RenForums unless they happen to have another place in common to contact each other privately.

Come on, you know tht programs like MSN exist right? You also know that nowadays creating a temporary website is even easier than logging in to this forum right?

Also, the rule wasn't there before they leaked private information (presuming that they did) so it is kinda unfair to first take their PM rights (outside of direct NS bussiness of course) and then implement a new rule. If you would've warned them, most of them would immediately stop posting it here. Surely they would probably find other places, but that is something you can't stop any way.

Unless you planned on taking down communities which they could use to communicate?

---