OK, blah blah blah... get the information offline, keep it in your private forums, and we won't have any problem. I fiercely protect the privacy of my staff. They post in our private forums assuming that whatever they say will remain within the intended audience and not strewn about the internet. I will do whatever is within my power to stop it, even if it's not possible. If that makes me a bad person, then so be it. But I'm sure the people who I'm protecting don't think so.

That's the last I'm going to say on this matter, so you can keep talking amongst yourselves if you wish.
