This is in no way related to Rush Limbaugh. Look at the site for God's sake. Does that look like a link to rushlimbaugh.com? No. I don't like the fact that Americans are considered teenagers by these people. We care about what we care about, not what Stephen Chu wants us to care about.

In regards to your first comment regarding Rush Limbaugh, the Wall Street Journal editorial pages aren't much better.

Furthermore, Chu is right, tbh. We have been shit when it comes to conserving energy and combatting global warming (Though China and India have been far worse). This is mostly the fault of the previous administration for ignoring the issue (even denying that the issue even exists..) and instead worrying about the interests of the oil companies. However, the blame also lies with average Americans who refuse to make simple changes in their lifestyle to combat the problem.

Agreed.
