Buy a mouse with a 3rd button so you don't lose scope...

I suggest Microsoft Comfort Optical Mouse 3000.

Edit: I guess you could use the scroll button on you mouse but, I personally didn't like it. On my mouse the 3rd button is right under my thumb on the side.

Thx that mouse does look good. My whole thing is my current mouse has a roller/third button but I don't like the feel of it.

I have a custom key setting saved where Q is secondary fire/scope. And right mouse button is free aim and left mouse button is primary. I use this only when say I join a server and feel like cracking some heads with a officer or am just teching on foot.

But when in vehicles, I go the default controls so I can use right mouse button for stank/mlrs/mammoth rockets.

It kinda gets annoying though switching between the 2 key settings while in-game but I am so used to it it doesn't really matter.
