
Subject: Re: RenX: waiting for players

Posted by Goztow on Mon, 19 Oct 2009 13:59:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:If you want I could just downright stop posting updates here. It looks like threads like these get a lot more attention than our actual release threads, partly because many of the posters here either don't play Renegade or don't care much about it, and are here to troll.

It would be a pity if you'd stop posting updates. Based on the number of views and replies these updates get, I'd say that they do get a lot of attention (last update: 62 views in less than one day; 0.35 beta release: over 1.000 views) which your mod very much needs, I think, just like any mod.

I think posts like zunnie made, actively asking for people to join his server, will always end up in either:

- * yes, people should join in now!!!
- * no, because server yyy is much better!!!
- * no, the mod sucks!!!

You may have noted that your updates posts have resulted in active feedback from multiple persons - most of which you choose to reject but that's another topic (see update on APC, green outline, ...).
