While I appreciate the endorsement of trustworthiness, "releasing" the source code to me alone does not satisfy the license agreement, it has to be a public release. I'm not entirely sure why anyone would think that to be honest, I don't have anything to do with the license agreement other than being someone else who has to abide by it. I'm not the license creator, holder etc etc.

People need to realise that the building bars are a cheat, and quite often they are not limited to only the building bars, but also the harvester too (which does not show up pressing 'k'). Even if you do not consider the building bars a cheat, then please respect the fact that these HUD's can be so easily manipulated and exploited to create cheats with the source code (which as explained, has to be released with the .dll files).

People really need to be careful what they wish for.

Iterating through buildings is only a stones throw away from iterating through players and vehicles. Once you have got the players/vehicles gameobject you can tell how far away they are, there health, there ammo etc etc. Sound familiar to anyone? We're talking ESP from a well known renegade cheat, only 'better'.

Not only that, get there object, and you can then very very easily create an aimbot. YAY! Custom aim bots for everyone! Soon you would have the aim bots flooding in, and they would end up being allot more sophisticated than the released version.

You would have map overlays with the positions of every single player in the game on your screen, being able to anticipate every rush, or the best route to take...

You would have no end up cheats made by people looking to increase there e-penis size.

Please do not see the people distributing the HUD's as some type of super renegade hero to be admired. They are not oppressed freedom fighters or saviours to the game...

Wake up people, for fucks sake!

Also, I do not appreciate making a post in the spam forum. I feel all dirty now.
