because they get a lawsuit from EA using the same ren material and plus they would also face a lawsuit from epic games

Your so smart.

Renegade is NOT stealing any content made by EA. They are just using the idea. And, EA has enjoyment of Renegade-X being made.

Also, this was released as a FREE product. So, that means, anything made by it can be released for free. Giving credits to EA and Epic Games are appreciated but selling something made by UDK for money will make you have an issue.

oh oh ookkkk if u read some of the comments on moddb u would find out why they wont make it stand alone >.> [NEFobby[GEN]said on ModDB.....

There's no way we can make it standalone, because EA owns rights to C&C, and UT3 is a non-EA game. Also, Epic owns the editor, the engine, a lot of the textures, animations, etc. that we are using. In other words, we don't have a license to the engine for us to make it a standalone/not need UT3.

Otherwise, we'd have two serious lawsuits on our hands.
