Could you elaborate possibly on the "hurtful things" in her life?

Many people are different, and some are only known to cry a couple times by relatives and close friends... normally relating to death of people and/or pets.

Also, without trying to be rude... how close are you with her? Are you trying to get closer?

She wont open up much, but basically family problems and boy problems and even major shit, she just holds it all in thinking its making her stronger
