Subject: Re: Advice needed for a new website/downloadsection
Posted by ChewML on Thu, 26 Nov 2009 18:10:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Thu, 26 November 2009 11:54Chew wrote on Thu, 26 November 2009 09:10Dover wrote on Thu, 26 November 2009 10:50Chew wrote on Thu, 26 November 2009 08:43Dover wrote on Thu, 26 November 2009 10:38Di3HardNL wrote on Thu, 26 November 2009 03:49I forgot to make clear I want to make my PERSONAL downloadsection. A page with only my stuff on it. I think game-maps is to messy with bad quality skins all over the place.

I wouldn't mind being it hosted over there to, but I also want like i sayed before my own page.

So add your bad quality skins to their bad quality skins. I mean, what harm does it do to piss in an ocean full of piss?

Well that is just the skin nazi speaking... Even if you don't skins at all you can not deny that Di3HardNL's work is always of a higher quality than the low standards that have been set.

It's a good thing you used a relative term like "higher quality" instead of an absolute term like "high quality".

Well I figured it was appropriate for people who have no interest in skinning/modeling... For those that do, they would prolly agree that Di3's work is "high quality". He obviously has had more practice and developed his skills well with the programs he uses. I personally only wish I could make something of such "quality", so I stick to "lol" skins mainly.

So he pisses in the ocean full of piss, but that's a good thing because at least he's not taking a dump in it like you are?
Only to some people it is a ocean of piss, to others it is collection of attempts to make a game new and fun in a way... some of course have failed.

It is kinda like fixing up cars some people want cars in mint condition with all original parts, while other want to slap the biggest rims on them and put 10 TVs in them. Just because you don't like the choice of rims doesn't mean others don't.