

---

Subject: Re: The problem with JohnDoe

Posted by IAmFenix on Wed, 09 Dec 2009 23:28:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There are a number of things I can't stand about Mr. John Doe, and I would just love to share them with you. I want to share this with you because to say that Mr. Doe's sound bites are all sweetness and light is homicidal nonsense and untrue to boot. I can reword my point as follows. Mr. Doe's put-downs do not pass muster by any objective standards. I have always assumed that Mr. Doe has shown he's not afraid to be xenophobic, but the fact of the matter is that Mr. Doe claims to be supportive of my plan to avoid the extremes of a pessimistic naturalism and an optimistic humanism by combining the truths of both. Don't trust him, though; he's a wolf in sheep's clothing. Before you know it, he'll adopt approaches that have not been tested to try to solve problems that have not been well-defined. Not only that, but Mr. Doe's venom-spouting actions are in full flower, and their poisonous petals of pauperism are blooming all around us.

Mr. Doe has never been accused of objectivity. I've already explained why, but let me add that I fully intend to tell it like it is. That's the path that I have chosen. It's indeed not an easy path, but then again, Mr. Doe sees himself as a postmodern equivalent of Marx's proletariat, revolutionizing the world by wresting it from its oppressors (viz., those who deliver him from his appalling ignorance). While reading this letter, you may have occasionally asked yourself, "Where is all of this leading?" and, "What is the point exactly?" I deliberately wrote in the style I did so that you may come up with your own conclusions. Therefore, I leave you with only the following: The little I've written so far already buttresses the assertion that a person with a functioning brain does not use threats of fiscal harm to coerce unenlightened mendicants into forcing me to have to fight with one hand tied behind my back.

---