Boy, I haven't been on the this forum for 4 years! But anyways back on topic.

EA is just making money, you see they don't care if you like it but they have to make it so you will buy it. Which does include making some people like it. They don't put hard work in it, and the ones that do are told to do other things like changing things that fans liked. Game styles changed... destroyed- altered to where its just boring.

Like I said EA is just after money. I mean really that's why they say the world runs on money- because everyone is after it!
