I give u a B+ for the last one, i didnt read it but it appears you cited your sources well, because you have many quotes. And probably some strong refuting arguments.

Wow...and that was one of the shorter ones. You should teach an English class or something... bet the students would love to have someone who just glances at something to see how long it is. I know I sure would have loved it.

Why even bother posting in this thread if you are not gonna read what others have to say? Maybe if you took time to read you would agree with pointfix.
