Now your arguments are just getting dumb... you can't argue for neutral, not in a pointfix debate at least.

Snipers = long range... often times you can't just run them over.

If you are about to kill a base, but time is running out... of course the other team is gonna try to hold off and win by points, with the original bugged points system they can do this often in a very easy and completely retarded way.

If you honestly don't give a shit about points then why the hell would you come into a pointfix thread?...
