Since I started playing Renegade I have not bought many other games. I bought some Sims games, because I used to love those, and I also bought CoD4... I played CoD for 2 weeks online, didn't even try the single player. Then I was like screw this game, way to unpredictable with all the assholes randomly throwing grenades or that martyrdom shit... plus it didn't have the community feel. When you play Renegade you recognize people from forums, IRC, and maybe other servers, I like that, makes it friendlier (most times). And of course the gameplay and style of Renegade, just awesome.

Oh yea, almost forgot about making skins, Renegade is like a interactive coloring book. Keeps it fresh and fun.
