Yea my freeaim is still set to "V", I tried changing both my mouse button and freeaim to other keys... the button works just fine outside of Renegade, but does nothing ingame.

What operating system are you running on? Vista or 7? Are you running Renegade as admin? If yes, try running it without administrator privileges. Programs that are run under with administrative privileges with UAC enabled (like it should be...) are protected from programs running as a standard user, and the software that actually outputs the "V" might be running as a standard user.
