I suppose to suggest that if a heterosexual can become homosexual due to environment, then it would also suggest that a homosexual can become heterosexual due to environment also. I don't think the latter is possible, so therefore the former must not be possible either.

Then again, look at religion and how parents affect children in this regard. Islam anyone?

I am using this example because it demonstrates so clearly the affect parents have on their children, please understand I am not trying to suggest that homosexuals go around trying to brainwash young children.
