$300 AUS should net you a good card like nVidia's GTX 260. It's a shame things are quite a bit more expensive that way,

Finding a 4870/4890 from ATI will be tough because those cards are 'End of Life' and have been replaced by the 5xxx Series.

Just from looking at Australian hardware site, the GTX 260's are $250+.

However, you'll want to buy way more memory, and keeping your $300 budget means you'll have to likely lower the amount you can spend on a graphics card. An nVidia GT250 could fit the bill, and same goes for an ATI 4850, although that card is EOL, too.
