I am not condoning any invasion of privacy, but it does seem that xpert is getting a hard time for his mistakes.

I'm not saying any of what he did in retaliation is right, but you really have to weigh up his total deeds, rather than judge him on One incident.

It does seem to me in the renegade community (and indeed life actually), that One screw-up and you're name is mud.

You can be a pretty good guy for 99% of the time, but that 1% makes you a dousche bag in everyone else's eyes. No one is perfect, we all make mistakes.

When people are making their minds up about xpert, try to remember all the money, time and effort he has put into renegade and the community.

I'm not saying trust him with your passwords, but it would be a shame if he was thought of as scum bag.

Sometimes you have to see past mistakes, and have a little compassion and forgiveness. We've all done things in our lives that have needed forging, and we're not proud of.
