Dear Miss Troll,
Dear Mister Troll,

Yes, you who are searching through messages to reply with plecos, to call people faggots or even better to start flame fights.

You, who's day is a success only if you managed to cause e-drama. You, who's deliberately provocative messages have caused countless hours of moderating time.

You, the master of ad hominem who lack any substance or relevance to back up your arguments.

Oh you, dear Troll, please consider this gentile message from the moderating team...

There, now that that's done... I'd like to note that this message is quite serious. We've noticed a serious increase of troll-messages (I don't know how to call them otherwise) during the last weeks, months, surprisingly even more so from users that recently came back (right, Dover?). We'd like it to cease. It's starting to take too much of our time. So please quit it...
