And that if i try it anyway, then it's my own fault for wasting my time in a project I believe in so obviously you don't need to stop pissing?

I see no fatality.

I'm asking you to see the difference between threads worth saving (Like this one) and threads not worth saving. For example, the Atomix thread is pretty much unsalvageable at this point. Any moderating thrown at it is trying to stop people from pissing in the ocean full of piss. I'm not saying give up on moderation entirely, I'm not saying you shouldn't try to improve the forums taken as a whole, but I am saying you should recognize a lost cause when you see one.
