Why is that? Do you believe that if you ban a cheater from Renforums that they will stop cheating in Renegade?

here's what you said.

Quote:How would you kicking cheaters from the forum benefit your clanwar experiences? How would it diminish the amount of cheaters who plague Renegade?

If you want to deal with cheaters, then deal with them. Don't take pointless steps that accomplish nothing for anyone.

this is nearly as stupid as what you said a few posts ago, the more cheats the better and all that tripe.

firstly, i didn't say banning 0x90 from the forum would undo the extraordinary amount of damage he has done to this game, especially the competitive sector of it. nor did i say it would diminish the number of the cheaters in the game. but if you're going to take this ridiculous line of reasoning, then let's be consistent. if the damage is already done, there's no need to dish out a penalty, right?

secondly it makes me sick to see more people defend him than flame him (because he's apparently nice and helpful to people on the forum... i'm sorry, but after the unbelievable amount of damage he's done to the players he's talking to, this is a mark of his dishonesty rather than his helpfulness, and it's sad to see how many people fall for it), and it makes me even sicker to see people take a brave stand against those of us who give him a piece of our mind.

thirdly, i've yet to hear a good reason to repudiate what i said in the earlier thread.

if he DOES want to get people to stop flaming him - and he's made it clear he is fairly desperate for that to happen even if he doesn't quite realise it himself - the only way i can see it happening is if he puts his supposed skills to work making a really good anti-cheat. if he doesn't want to be treated like the scum he is, he can start by undoing the damage he's done. until then i reserve the right to publicly humiliate him. maybe some people here don't gain some satisfaction from the knowledge that it obviously hurts him, but i'll go on the record that i do.
