Not everyone share this view ofc, but that do not make others stupid let's be clear here. EWD doesn't just think 0x90 shouldn't be banned because he hasn't broken any rules. it wouldn't be too bad if that's all was happening here. it's much worse. EWD, and he's not the only one, thinks 0x90 needs to be protected from being flamed by those of us who don't mind saying the obvious. and not just that - he's quite happy to call for a public "bashing" of a fellow TT member (who's always been honest and always been on the correct side of the anti-cheat fight, which isn't the case for everyone in TT, i can tell you that) to help achieve it.

Let me bring it down to Spoony's level: lollololollo. It's mostly rubbish/ opinion what you write here.

look at that situation for what it is. in a considered statement, he's attacked Spoony for the stated purpose that he wants to get into 0x90's good books. and he's tried to justify this by saying there's no point keeping me as an ally because clanwars is dead, so obviously it makes much more sense to take sides with the son of a bitch who killed it.

Yeah, right. I got a feeling you're hinting at something? Why would I need 0x90's good side? If you mean something then SAY IT. I think he's not too bad as a person, certainly, but I don't agree with him cheating in any way. I must however also note that he also created exploits which can crash servers easily. He apparently tested it on Jelly's server 3 times on one afternoon. I don't agree to that for sure. However, I did ask him to test it on the BI server. You know why? Because we already improved some protection/exploits which will also be in TT. Now we know TT will be save from that particular exploit.

On the suggestioon that you're being useless, basically it's true. You were asked on the team for clanwars. Somewhere in this topic you said competitive renegade is dead. Then what's your purpose then? It's not like the rest of the TT team doesn't know how to play Renegade, or how public games work. I think that with NS and BI we've proven to know what public players enjoy.

all told, this is one of the most disgraceful things i've ever seen in my involvement with this game, and i must say it came as a surprise that EWD would sink so low.

Opinion, which I obviously do not care about.

and like i said, he isn't the only prominent person to think things as ludicrous as this. if EWD is right and most of TT agrees with him, then we really, really have a problem.

Yes of course, we really really have a problem because you know, 0x90 will kill us all on RF. If we not ban him there is no telling what horrors he could do.
TT wants to be able to communicate with 0x90, and letting him be here and letting him see what havoc his cheats cause are probably more convincing to stop than banning him.

Oh btw, we're on purposely delaying TT so 0x90 can cheat more. That's how evil we are. You again forget to mention how much time the whole team you apparently don't support even more spends on this project. You also prove my point on the cheat community being much more grateful than the normal Renegade community.

Oh and btw, you have quite some nerve speaking to me like this. I am the original mind behind BIATCH. I though up the concept works, StealthEye created it. Name one decent server that's not using it, so don't suggest I'm pro-cheating here, or anyone on the TT team. If you do want to suggest so, then please call names and show proof. SirKane has been dealt with as you should obviously know.

let me finish by repeating what i said several pages ago. if 0x90 wants to be thought of as anything other than a petulant, vacuous piece of shit in this community, then yes, he ought to do something repair the extraordinary amount of damage he has done to this game and we should take every opportunity to remind him what a cunt he is until he does so.

Good luck reminding him on UC. You wanted him gone right? Then you can't remind him. That is your flaw.

That makes his arguments at least just as retarded as the post you quoted.I dont see where he suggested that YOU killed CW in no way, he said that 0x90 is responsible for it, because server owners used cheat name removed there's no need to refute that, kimb... anyone seriously reading this thread can see EWD was lying through his teeth when he said that. it clearly wasn't a misunderstanding, it was a desperate and dishonest tactic which only an idiot would have thought would work.

Thank you for your cooperation Spoony. You're always calling people that disagree lairs. The point I was making was you you, as you do here in perfect honesty, are trying to make me look bad, while in fact I dare say I did more than 90% of the people here to keep Renegade alive. So thank you, for showing everyone what an asshole you are.
Also, presume that I would quit Renegade and such. What would you think would happen? At best, very little, but more probably BI would die fast, which would probably make StealthEye lose interest. Take a guess who on TT is probably best able to help others define what to code? I guess Saberhawk comes very close, or might be a tad better, but he's not as much around due to college and such.

Oh and Nikki, if you're addressing me, then I shall explain why I want the topic locked.
1. It has been discussed many times. Spoony now actively engaging because his precious CW.cc is dead, claiming it's just cheats that killed it. (Has anyone noticed there are just generally less players online? Surely that is only because of cheats [/sarcasm])
2. Spoony is being disruptive regarding goals the TT team wants to achieve, and him doing so in public will indeed make the urge for a good TT release only greater, but it does also hamper the team, causing it to work less effective.

That is the main reason why this thread should've stayed locked. No good can come from it. Spoony will only stop when everyone stops replying or when he got what he wanted, like a little child.

The, to me, most offensive part is that Spoony totally neglected any reasoning I gave him in private on why we can't have this. That is a real issue when someone is on a team which should work together.

One more thing, the TT team here doesn't decide who get's banned or not, that's still up to Crimson (and/or Gozy). Only from the general opinion of the TT team it wouldn't help us make 4.0 as good as it should be.
