@ Delphic

hey I never said I fully understand the game! I watch football casually during the World Cup (as with the previous 2 WC's) but maybe I am interested enough to follow the club games after this is over. Speaking of clubs, sure even I understand that good players come from everywhere but making it all work in these games is sometimes a challenge like we clearly saw on that match (I hope you didn't take it offensively with me appearing to put down England and its players specifically; that's not what I was trying to do).
