A) How exactly is following your posts on the neoseeker thread five days after you posted them because you managed to PM me here being a "sado"? That does not meet the definition of sadistic.

B) I apologize for revealing your PM without your consent. It does display poor etiquette on my part. However, noone else would have known you were reopening the whole hardkil debacle had I not provided evidence that you'd done so. The neoseeker thread didn't provide the whole story, so I weighed that against maintaining your privacy in a message that contains no truly private information and that you probably could have posted here in a public thread had you known/remembered how.

C) Own me 150 to nothing in what? I don't have Dawn of War, so I guess I'm not going to Edit: P.S. Going to work now. See you in 10.5 hours.
