
Subject: Re: Who is the best Renegade player(s) nowadays?

Posted by Spoony on Sat, 13 Nov 2010 11:50:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Caveman wrote on Sat, 13 November 2010 05:38l dont recall losing any argument in that thread I simply gave up talking to someone who wasn't going to accept any other opinion that wasn't his. Kinda hard to talk to brick walls.

so many people say this when they lose an argument. whatever makes you feel better. it HAS to be something wrong with the person you lost the argument to... the explanation CAN'T POSSIBLY be that you were just plain wrong, can it?

it's only an internet argument, friend... learn to deal with it.

Quote:Leading a team or a ladder its all the same uh, no, there's a big difference between successfully managing a clan ladder or a community or whatever, and successfully leading a team to victory inside a computer game.

Quote:you think you're gods gift for some unknown reason.

again, why do you feel the need to lie? I've seen this before in a lot of arguments too... whenever someone can't refute what you say, they make up something you didn't say instead. it's always a sign of desperation.

Quote:I am lying through my teeth about what? About you in Atomix like 3 days ago sitting on the bridge on Glacier_flying attacking a dead building that had been dead for 10mins even though you was told it was dead?

Would you care for me to pull the logs?

10 minutes is the lie, and such a hideous one that it truly shows your desperation. 10 seconds might be nearer the mark. i'd been afk for a second and missed it dying, and on glacier the buildings don't look different when they're dead. whatever, if you think that small mistake that did no harm to the team means anything, then how angry it must make you that i killed the hand and the ob single-handedly, and had BY FAR the biggest score in the whole game thanks to hammering buildings and smashing tanks up. if you're gonna flame anyone from that game, it might be the guy who jumped to GDI when nod was 5000 down with only the ob, PP and ref. but you won't say anything about that, because you didn't lose an argument to him the day before... so you've no reason to be furious.
