like i said, !surrender is a legitimate way to end the game. it's basically a vote amongst your own team whether to forfeit (and it results in all your buildings dying and you getting the loss). a !gameover - whether by a mod or by a vote - is not a legitimate way to end the game.

you described the exact situation i talked about when i designed the surrender script. you can also see my thread in marathon where i say that if servers want to be ladderred, they'll need to use surrender rather than gameover.
