Athiests believe there is no God. Unless you show me proof, I will continue to say so.

Atheism by definition is a complete lack of theism. It is not a belief that God does not exist, it's a total absence of belief in his existence.

I'm not saying you're doing it deliberately, but your argument has been used by many others before, and it is a poor attempt to try and group atheists in with other belief systems. They simply do not fit into that category.

You can try and fool some stupid atheists into saying "I believe that God does not exist". In reality though, most of them will say (unless lead and pushed into saying) that "I do not believe in God".
